1. Key issues of the democracy implemented across the globe

Usually the voting happens every 4 or 5 years, where general population chooses their representative(s). Huge amount of people are not interested in politics, and do not know the candidates or their programs. What happens is that at least 1 year before the voting the campaign starts. Usually it is limited to basic advertisements – smiley faces with no or very little constructive information. After the voting, there is often a tremendous change, and so another year passes for creation of coalition, forming government and deciding on a plan what to do and in which direction.

As a conclusion there are usually 2 years wasted and a new government very seldom continues what the previous has started. Often “smiling flops” are elected with whom the country is stuck for a long time. Some do not contribute at all. Even if by chance great individuals are elected, the efficiency is still very low...

2. The beauty of the Monarchy and the risk

Currently I am living in UAE where I am impressed what Sheikh Zayed has achieved. The beauty of Monarchy and similar systems is that the King or Sheikh does care for his own country and tries his best to make it a better place. A ruler can implement strategies, which needs many years or even decades to see the result. The key issue is that a son of the ruler might not have the right abilities to rule the country. The new monarch can get spoiled with high level live and forget about his country. There are many examples of dictatorships which show a great failure if one person has ultimate power. Also the great rulers from the past, if governing too long might miss the “surrounding change” and rule forever even if great individuals could do that job much better.

As a conclusion you can be either: lucky, not so lucky or highly unlucky if one individual gets ultimate ruling power... and the people have no control what so ever about their future, that may lead to unrests and revolutions.

3. Concept of In+Direct Democracy – the powerful & harmonious governing.

Basic concept:

- The voting happens every year!
- The representatives are chosen for a 10 years term!
- The population chooses their representatives for the city or district only (depending on size).
- Only 20% of the required representatives are changed every year.
- During voting there are several lists:
 - List of the new candidates for the city
 - List of currently governing representatives in the city
 - List of currently governing representatives in the Region
 - List of currently governing representatives in the Country
 - And 1 space for the president/head of state
- The population has the power to take away the rulers from the city, region, state and even head of state with yearly voting.
- The voters may place + or – next to each person
 - each voter has 10(+) and 10(-) than can be freely distributed across all list
- 10% of the current representatives from all levels are taken away from their posts due to received accumulated (–)
- 10% of the current representatives are taken away from their posts due to the rules:
 - For example: 10 years has passed
 - For example: During the last year this person was the most absent
 - For example: During the last year this person has voted the most often against others
 - For example: Has spent the most money
 - For example: Had the least amount of initiatives
 - Other rules to be defined
- The representatives from the city are promoting from themselves their own representatives for the region (only 20% are changed every year)
- The representatives from the region are promoting from themselves their own representatives for the state (only 20% are changed every year)
- The state representatives are promoting from themselves The head of state for a 10 year term, that can be taken away in the yearly voting by the people if 50+% are unhappy with the choice of state representatives.
- The newly elected representatives on any level must work in that level for at least 1 year before they get the right to be elected to the next level.
 - This ensures that people get to know each other before electing and also that great talkers & no doers are not promoted
- The representative of the region or state if would wish to be selected for the next 10 years of service, would have to start in the city or district and stay in that post for a minimum of 2 years

- This ensures that their experience and contacts would be beneficial for the city and in addition they would connect with the people on the ground – so they are not too far away from what really matters.
- The representatives shall have as large power as the constitution allows - these are the best people ever, and if they screw, people can easily eliminate them.
- People do know each other in a small city or district and so the choice of representatives is better.

Key benefits:

- Great individuals and the leaders are elected
- Individuals from small unknown places get the same chance
- Constructive programs in the local scale will be discussed
- 20% yearly change ensures a possibility to create long term strategies and the harmonious execution of the running projects.
- Less time and effort would be spent on pointless campaigns
- People have possibility to steer the course which the country shall follow
- "Black sheep" can be easily eliminated

"In+Direct" Democracy means that population gives the great power to their representatives for many years of service, and the wrong- or no-doers can be easily and fast eliminated which means the powerful & harmonious governing.
